

WILD or? wearable?

What rules on the red carpet doesn't always work in real life

wild

Kimberly Stewart's skull-and-crossbones minidress is supertrendy right now, but this incredibly high hemline is a wardrobe malfunction waiting to happen.

wearable

Hear "tie-dye" and you immediately think of hippies. But Haitian-born Garcelle Beauvais-Nilon elevates this casual look with a funky Hollywood dress that highlights her skin tone.

wild

As a former Sports Illustrated swimsuit model, Molly Sims is used to wearing next to nothing, but covering up with this huge bow is too extreme. Standing next to her could be hazardous!